Idle No More a peaceful affair in front of city hall

Diversity of opinion.

Environmental issues, inequality and racism at the forefront for hundreds who gathered for vigil

ROBSON FLETCHER
robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

More than 250 people gathered in front of city hall Wednesday evening for an Idle No More rally that participants said was separate from the "day of action" protests going on elsewhere in Canada.

"We want it to be peaceful," said organizer Chantal Chagnon, distancing the Calgary event from blockades that arose in other parts of the country.

Natasha Labelle of Morley said she was opposed to that type of confrontational action.

"I don't think that's the way things should be handled," she said. "For us to actually be listened to, I think it should be more peaceful, like what's going on right now."

Separate rally

Protesters march in downtown

Earlier Wednesday, about 30 aboriginals from across Alberta marched through downtown Calgary, calling for change at the federal level and within the governance of First Nations, themselves.

"We can't stand around and point fingers at everybody else," said Nathan Big Bear of the Piikani Nation. "We have to start looking at ourselves, as well, as part of the changes that need to be made within our communities."

The group is not directly affiliated to the Idle No More movement, Big Bear said, although they do share some common goals.

"We're just young people who have taken it upon ourselves to try and promote a change," he said, adding that the demonstrators have no direct affiliation with chiefs or elected band council members, either.

"The governing system on reserves has been failing us, some of us for more than 140, 150 years," Big Bear said. "Until those systems are changed, we're going to keep having the same problems."

ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

make something of our lives," Labelle said. "To say that we're drunks and we're not going to go anywhere, we shouldn't have that."

For Jemison Jackson, who registered her daughter for kindergarten earlier in the day, equality was a salient issue.

"I know that First Nations' children don't receive the same amount of funding as children who don't live on reserves, and that offends me as a Canadian," she said.

But it was changes to water-protection laws under the federal government's omnibus Bill C-45 that was a catalyst for much of the movement, according to Chagnon.

"There is a message at the very core of Idle No More about protecting our water, our land, and our children's future," she said.

Torture. Convict's dangerous offender hearing set for July

A dangerous offender hearing for a man convicted of torturing his former roommate is to begin this summer.

Dustin Ward Paxton, 33, was convicted by a Calgary judge last February of aggravated assault and sexual assault.

Crown prosecutor Joe Mercier said Wednesday the Alberta Attorney General's Department gave permission for the hearing to go ahead after lengthy delays with getting a psychiatric assessment.

If Paxton is deemed a dangerous offender, he can be kept in jail indefinitely.

The hearing is scheduled to begin July 15 and is expected to last four weeks.

It is to include testimony from forensic psychiatrist Dr. David Tano, who conducted a 60-day examination of Paxton last year.

Paxton was charged in 2010 after a man was found dumped, near death, at a Regina hospital. He was badly emaciated, bruised, broken and bleeding, and his lower lip was nearly gone. The man weighed less than 100 pounds.

Justice Sheilah Martin concluded Paxton had abused and starved his former roommate on a regular basis. The victim cannot be named because of a court order.

Martin said the victim could not consent to being a "whipping post" and there was "evidence of wounding, maiming, disfiguring and his life was in danger on two occasions."

The two men originally met in Winnipeg but moved to Calgary to start a moving business. They eventually shut down the business and started moving from motel to motel until they ended up in Regina.

Proposed shark fin ban rebuked

Opponents of Calgary's proposed shark-fin ban are ratcheting up the pressure on city council to kill the bylaw before its third and final reading, set for Jan. 28.

"We just want them to consider to withdraw this bylaw," said Richard Poon of the Coalition for Transparent and Accountable Governance (CTAG).

The group represents dozens of business owners and non-profit organizations based in Calgary's Chinatown, according to Poon, as well as "thousands of concerned citizens."

CTAG delivered a report to the city clerk this week that describes a lack of community consultation prior to the bylaw's first reading in October and "misinformation" provided to city council.

While CTAG opposes the practice of shark finning, Poon said shark fins can be ethically acquired through traditional fishing that harvests the entire animal.

Ald. Brian Pincott, said that may be true but "the vast majority of shark fins come from the practice of shark finning."

Pincott said council will have to consider information gathered at community consultations held in December as well as an Ontario court decision that struck down Toronto's shark-fin ban, but he hopes the bylaw will still pass.

Ingrid Kuenzel of Shark Fin Free Calgary said she's "very optimistic" the bylaw will go through, which she believes will help reduce the practice of shark finning globally.

"The dialogue around the ban creates education and education creates change," Kuenzel said.

Student mental health services get $27M boost

Stress, workload.
Government gives
3 local universities
$3M each for next
3 years to expand
mental health services

Suicide

2,500

As an example provided of the scope of student mental health in the province, the University of Alberta found in a survey that seven per cent of students — roughly 2,500 — reported thinking seriously about committing suicide.

jeremy.nola@metronews.ca

One in five University of Calgary students will seek mental health assistance on campus this year.

That number would likely be similar at Mount Royal University and SAIT as well, officials said.

But officials with the city's largest post-secondary institution are optimistic a funding injection from the province announced Wednesday will go a long way towards ensuring those needing assistance will be taken care of in an efficient and effective manner.

"Clearly, we are looking at doing more counselling ... we are also looking at piloting a triage physician, so that when students come in asking for help, rather than setting up an appointment with a doctor or counsellor, we have a trained practitioner who will be able to direct the resources that they need," said U of C vice-provost Susan Barker.

The U of C, University of Alberta and University of Lethbridge will each receive $3 million over the next three years to expand mental health services on campus.

Another $1.5 million will be funnelled through the Alberta Students Executive Council and utilized in other, smaller institutions in the province.

Health Minister Fred Horne announced $10.5 million in funding over the next three years for mental health services at the University of Alberta on Wednesday.

RYAN TUMILTY/METRO IN EDMONTON

Health Minister Fred Horne said students face specific struggles associated with workload.

"The mental health of each student is intensely personal as it is for all of us, but the benefits of good mental health are felt by the entire community," he added.

ATA. Teachers' union head stepping down

The provincial teachers' union will be looking for a new president in the coming months, officials have confirmed.

Carol Henderson, the two-term head of the Alberta Teachers' Association, has said she will not continue in the top job. Spokesperson Laura Harris said Tuesday that Henderson is leaving for health reasons, but she does hope to stay involved in the union in some capacity.

Henderson has been outspoken in recent weeks as contract talks between the ATA, province and Alberta School Boards Association broke down.

Budget woes

Kindergarten pledge on block

Alberta's budget woes could delay Premier Alison Redford from making good on her promise to bring in fully funded full-day kindergarten.

Last year, the government said it wanted to start rolling out the program this fall at an estimated annual cost of up to $200 million.

Now, with warnings of a tough budget ahead, the Alberta School Boards Association says it's been told by the province that education funding is being reviewed, including the kindergarten pledge.

Association president Jacquie Hansen says school boards understand financial realities, but also feel that the government should commit to its promises.

Plastic cutlery and containers will soon mostly be a thing of the past at the University of Calgary's main food court.

The students' union implemented the second phase of its environmental initiative this month, with the aim of drastically cutting the amount of waste created in the food hall.

The composting program started in 2011, when food-court vendors in MacEwan Hall were asked to replace Styrofoam containers with compostable or recyclable items.

"We've moved toward a system where we can divert a lot of the waste that's produced in our hall from landfills," said Scott Weir, the SU's vice-president of operation and finance, who hopes to have all vendors supplying compostable

"The students are in favour, the vendors are supportive and I think it makes the university look better overall."

Weir said the SU surveyed thousands of students found 85% were willing to pay up to 25 cent more per meal to cover the costs of compostable containers. But most vendors have simply integrated the costs without raising prices.

"The students' union is a campus leader in this now," Weir said. "We're actually ahead of the curve in terms of compostable initiatives."

Health minister 'offended' by queue jumping

Cancer screening.

Inquiry hears how patients from a private centre beat out average Albertans by years

Alberta's health minister says he is very concerned over testimony about a deal that allowed patients from a private Calgary clinic to jump the line for colon cancer tests at a public facility.

Fred Horne reacted Wednesday to evidence presented at the provincial queue-jumping inquiry. Staff at the Forzani and MacPhail Colon Cancer Care Screening Centre testified this week about how patients from the private Helios Wellness Centre were given urgent priority for routine tests in 2010 and 2011.

"I'm really offended by it. I think all Albertans are," said

The rationale

The centre's head explained to the inquiry Wednesday that administrative chaos when the facility opened in 2008 led to some patients getting tests quicker.

- Testimony. Dr. Alaa Rostom testified that specialists not working at the clinic had fewer slots to offer their private patients. So, to be fair, they were given one in every two slots.

Horne.

"The only way that any of us should be accessing these services is through a physician and through (his or her) medical judgement."

The inquiry heard Helios patients had screenings within weeks, while regular Albertans were waiting three years or more.

An audit was done on the Forzani clinic in 2011, and the inquiry heard that Helios patients no longer received special treatment after that.

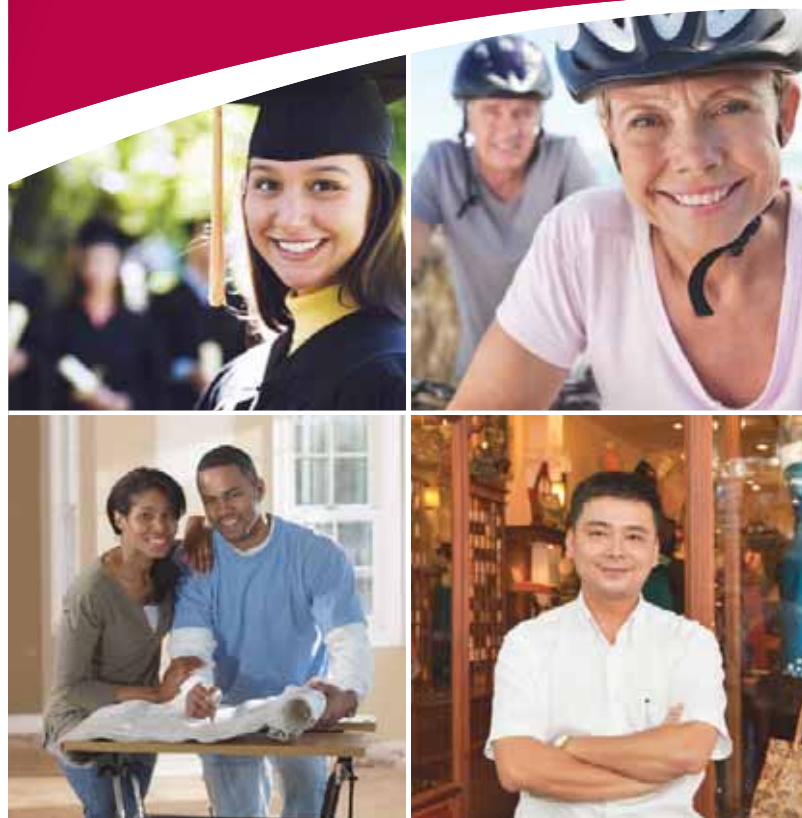

Horne said he doesn't think it's necessary for officials to speak with Helios brass. He said he doesn't want to interfere with the inquiry and will wait until it wraps up with a report and recommendations.

Wildrose health critic Heather Forsyth said it's unfortunate Horne isn't going to act quickly.

"If Minister Horne finds it offensive, then it's up to him to make sure it doesn't happen again," she said. "It's incumbent upon him to show leadership and make sure this is not happening, not only from Helios but any clinic."

Calgary father Kevin Rashke stands in front of what very well may be the city's largest snow fort. JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

Backyard fort is snow small feat

Pride and joy. Local father has spent 100 hours on creation to date and has no thoughts of slowing down

Calgary's early winter melt appears to be in full swing — at least temporarily — but in one Whitehorn backyard a local father's snow-made man cave appears to be standing strong.

"It will last," says Kevin Rashke from the living room of his fort, which also features a bedroom and third area still under construction. "I have been doing this since I was born, so I know how it works.... It's in my blood."

The fort's main room alone measures nearly four metres long and three metres wide and comes with a makeshift lamp, dining-room table and broken TV that Rashke says "adds character" to the living space.

Blankets are neatly laid out in the fort and Rashke admits to routinely sleeping in his creation — that is when he's not

How-to

Kevin Rashke's tips for building your own snow fort:

- Dig during the day. This is particularly important for safety purposes because it allows you to use the sun as a guide. If golden rays begin shining through the fort walls, you need to reinforce them quickly.
- Use wet, packed snow. The fluffy stuff may look better but fort building is serious stuff, not a beauty contest.
- Don't build too high. Weight distribution becomes key — only construct the walls high enough so you can sit comfortably inside.

the fort to date.

His two young sons and numerous friends have been known to pitch in from time to time and also join in on the camping fun.

"It's solid," said pal Bradie Fontaine, slapping his hand on the entrance, which is reinforced by table legs, to prove his point. "It's got to be the biggest fort in the city."

But Rashke has no thoughts of slowing down — he's already eyeing further opportunities with the possibility of flurries in the weekend forecast.

And if the fort was to come crashing down?

"We'll just pile it up and do it again," Rashke says. "The possibilities are endless with this.... This is nature at its finest."

Obama unveils plan to curb gun violence

Your move, Congress. President bracing for blowback from gun owners, lawmakers and lobbyists

U.S. President Barack Obama urged a reluctant Congress on Wednesday to require background checks for all gun sales and ban both military-style assault weapons and high-capacity ammunition magazines in an emotion-laden plea to curb gun violence in America, though he acknowledged he's in for an uphill battle.

The president's sweeping, $500-million plan, coming one month after the school massacre in Connecticut, marks the most comprehensive effort to tighten gun laws in nearly two decades. But his proposals, most of which are opposed by the powerful National Rifle Association and its allies in Washington, face a doubtful future in a divided Congress where Republicans control the House of Representatives.

Seeking to circumvent at least some opposition, Obama signed 23 executive actions on Wednesday, including orders to make more federal data available for background checks and end a freeze on government research on gun violence. But he acknowledged that the steps he took on his own would have less impact than the broad measures requiring approval from Congress.

The U.S. has the highest rate of gun ownership in the world, and pro-gun groups see any move on gun restrictions as an offence against the right guaranteed by the Second Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. Critics counter that the country's founding fathers never could have foreseen assault weapons more than two centuries ago, when guns were intended for common, not individual, defence.

"This is the land of the free and the home of the brave," Obama said, acknowledging the right to bear arms. "But we've also long realized ... that with rights come responsibilities." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

France's Ambassador Philippe Zeller told The Canadian Press his country is grateful for Canada's contribution of a military transport plane to the Mali mission, but says money is needed to support the international force, which will eventually be buttressed by 2,500 French troops. Prime Minister Stephen Harper has ruled out any Canadian combat contribution, saying that's not how he interprets the UN resolution urging support of Mali. ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A helicopter crashed into a crane and fell on a crowded street in central London during rush hour Wednesday, sending flames and smoke into the air. The pilot and one person on

Cirque du soleil to let go of 400 staff

Blame the loonie.

Company says it had a record year but no profit, due in part to production costs

The strong Canadian dollar, surging production costs and the worldwide economic downturn are all being blamed by Cirque du soleil for its decision to lay off 400 employees.

Most of the layoffs will be at the artistic giant's Montreal headquarters.

Company spokeswoman Renée-Claude Ménard moved to dispel speculation that Cirque is flailing. "The first thing to say is that the circus is not in crisis," Ménard told a news conference Wednesday. "Let's get that straight."

"We had a record year in terms of tickets sold. We sold more than 14 million tickets this year. We had a record year for total revenue, with more than $1 billion."

Despite that, Cirque didn't make money, Ménard said. She said the powerful loonie hit Cirque hard in that its profit is affected by nearly $3 million for each cent the currency gains against the U.S. dollar.

Cirque employs about 5,000 people worldwide, including

2,000 in Montreal.

It still has 19 productions worldwide and is currently working on a new show that will open in May in Las Vegas. Another touring production is in the works for the spring of 2014.

Cirque's performances have played to an estimated

15 million people since it was founded by street performer Guy Laliberté in 1984.

It has undertaken several years of unprecedented expansion amid the world economic meltdown in 2008 but has been forced to close four shows in the last couple of years.

Boeing 787s grounded over safety concerns

The FAA has grounded the Boeing 787 Dreamliner pending a safety check of the plane's lithium batteries. For the second time in two weeks, a smoking or burning battery has been tied to an emergency aboard a 787, this time on Japan's All Nippon Airways.

Almost half the 787s that had been delivered have been grounded for safety checks. The latest incident raises the risk that the jet's electrical problems are more dangerous than previously thought.

GET YOUR FLU SHOT, JACKASS

HE SAYS...
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

Flu season might seem like it's almost come and gone, but there's still time to get a flu shot, you big jerk.

Yeah, you heard me.

I'm insulting those of you who haven't received your flu shots yet — you doofuses or, if you prefer, doofii — because I figure if you haven't been jabbed yet, you're probably not going to get the late-but-still-effective poke based on the gentle prodding of health-care providers. What you need is someone to needle you.

So get a flu shot, jackass.

And make no mistake: by not getting a flu shot, you're being a jackass — a risk-taking, disease-spreading, conspiracy-minded (or maybe just lazy) jackass.

Take one for the team

Here's what I think: if you don't get your flu shot, maybe you're not that bright. Maybe you're the type of person who snickers when they read that something was published in the Annals of Family Medicine.

Here's what I think: if you don't get your flu shot, maybe you're not that bright. Maybe you're the type of person who snickers when they read that something was published in the Annals of Family Medicine.

Or maybe you base your health decisions on a YouTube video of a 1993 news report showing that a lone person in Iowa once got sick from a flu shot, which always makes me wonder what you think of, you know, food — what with the choking and the poisoning and the parasites.

Or maybe you're the sort of person who reads this TMZ tweet — "Hugh Jackman (says) flu shots don't work. Center for disease control says otherwise. Which side do you believe?" — and has to think long and hard about the answer.

Or maybe you just haven't gotten a flu shot because you're a sensible person who hasn't gotten around to it. Fine. Then here's why you need to get it:

- The flu shot helps. Estimates this year are that it cuts your risk in half. That means I'm 50 per cent less dangerous than you are and 3,000 per cent more intelligent.
- The flu shot is necessary. You can't get by just with hand-washing — not in a cruel, unsanitary world, where many public bathrooms still have that towel-imitating cloth-thing that dangles down from a dispenser, daring you to touch it. Most people just frown at it, their hands dripping, wondering what heinous acts might have been performed on it, only to leave it there, filthy, yet probably touched only 15 times, tops, since it was installed in 1973.
- The flu shot saves lives. Thousands — tens of thousands — of people die on average every year in North America because of the flu, and like most illnesses, it's particularly harsh on our most vulnerable, including our humour columnists, who don't get paid if they're too sick to go to work.

So I'm not trying to be holier-than-thou. I'm trying to drive home that I don't want the old, the young and infirm to get sick, or worse, because they caught the flu from selfish, crazy you. In other words, I only complain because I care about you, want the best for you and, yes, maybe even love you.

You jackass.

Man-made weather

Artificial tornado fights fires indoors

It's famous worldwide for making robust Mercedes cars, and now German automobile producer Daimler seems adept at making weather. The Mercedes-Benz Museum in Stuttgart houses "the world's strongest artificially generated tornado." The 34.4-metre-high cyclone serves to eliminate smoke in the event of a fire. METRO

Artificial tornadoes

Energy firm could whip up a storm

Apart from quelling fires, man-made tornadoes could be used in producing energy. Canadian firm AVEtec Energy Corporation has developed a four-metre-diameter prototype that is designed to produce a 40-metre-high cyclone. The vortex would capture mechanical energy produced when heat is carried upward by convection in the atmosphere. METRO

Faking it

Man creates clouds for art's sake

Artificial weather phenomena have also entered the realm of the art world.

Dutch artist Berndnaut Smilde has created miniature clouds using a smoke machine, combined with indoor moisture and dramatic lighting to create an indoor cloud effect.

Smilde has described it as a "cartoon-like visualization of bad luck." METRO

The 50-person vocal ensemble Revv52 performs classic songs by The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, The Clash, David Bowie and more at River Park Church this weekend. BLAIR COSGROVE

British invasion. Choir group of 50 Revv52 performs classic U.K. hits from the last 50 years

BACKSTAGE PASS

lisa.wilton@metronews.ca

The United Kingdom has boasted more than its fair share of chart-topping musical acts over the years.

From The Kinks, The Beatles and The Rolling Stones to David Bowie, T-Rex and, erm, The Spice Girls, British bands have often led the charge in changing the musical landscape.

And with the public's interest in the U.K. still high thanks to the London 2012 Olympics and our ongoing fascination with Will and Kate, Revv52 artistic director Brian Farrell figured it was the perfect time to revisit classic British tunes from the past five decades.

"We wanted to explore some of the roots of British music," says Farrell, who has worked with the Calgary based vocal ensemble since 1995.

"(For) The first act we have the two and four-track recordings like Those Were the Days by Mary Hopkin, For Your Love (The Yardbirds), Time of the Season (The Zombies) and My Generation (The Who.) And in the second half we have more of the multi-track stuff like David Bowie, Elton John. ... A lot of recordings that were made at the Trident Studios in London."

To choose the songs that would best represent 50 years of U.K. musical history, Farrell went on a fact-finding trip to London last year and immersed himself in the legendary Soho scene.

He visited Denmark Street, the site of Regent Sounds Studio, where the Stones recorded some of their earliest singles.

"People (working in music shops along the street) all had recommendations of what I should cover," he said.

It's not the first time Farrell has delved into the music of a particular area. He has also created shows using the music of Greenwich Village folkie greats and Memphis soul stars.

"I love all types of music," he explains.

"I love Beethoven. I admire anything that's excellent."

Revv52 has been around since 1952 when it was known as the Calgary Choral Society and performed mostly classical works.

The group, which consists of 50 volunteer vocalists, now focuses on bigger shows with scripts, lighting and a full band.

"We want Revv52 concerts to be an experience you won't soon forget," says Farrell.

The Silver Lining and Hunger for fame

Interview. Jennifer Lawrence speaks to Metro about adjusting to the limelight and how she has managed to stay grounded

EHRBAR
Metro World News

Talking to Golden Globe winner and Oscar nominee Jennifer Lawrence is always a treat, as she's the rare young actress who talks frankly and honestly about whatever she feels like without a hint of media training.

Here are some pearls of wisdom from our latest chat with the Silver Linings Playbook and Hunger Games star.

On adjusting to stardom
I feel so bad for Emma Stone, because she's where I was a few months ago. When it first happens, it's horrible because your entire life flips upside down and the entire planet starts treating you differently, and it's really hard to adjust and get used to, but then you get through it.

Actress Jennifer Lawrence is a Golden Globe winner and Oscar nominee. CHRISTOPHER POLK/GETTY IMAGES

People told me that it would come in waves, and they were right.

I texted Emma yesterday and I was like, "I'm walking down Rodeo Drive. Nothing!" And she was like, "The audacity!" (laughs). But yeah, there are bad days and there are good days.

On what she's learned from Bradley Cooper

He was the one who told me I can't go to Whole Foods

(anymore), and I tested it and he was totally right. The paparazzi, they're like at every Whole Foods, it's insane. I had to say goodbye to Whole Foods. It's fine, I can get friends to get my groceries. I dipped my foot in the water and I was like, "You know what, you buy me groceries. I don't want Whole Foods to call the police again."

On trying to gain weight for Silver Linings Playbook

I was supposed to, but I was also dancing two hours a day. I kept trying to explain that to (director) David (O. Russell), because he was like, "You're not getting fatter." I had a Philly cheesesteak I think every day. They're on every street corner and they're delicious. And then at the end when I finally slowed down the dancing, it was like, "Yeah, I'm looking pretty good, right? Look at this." And then David's like, "Yeah, you're going to be in a tube top."

On trying to stay grounded
I still want the same life that I grew up with. I still want a family, a normal family. I will have to make a couple of adjustments (because of my career). I'm at peace with myself because I think that maybe not having to deal with years of rejection at such a young age — I think that could definitely be damaging.

I can't imagine letting my young child go through something like that. There were times when I was doing a movie once that was really emotionally hard for me.

Tattoo number two for Bieber in 2013

Justin Bieber's tattoo habit is insatiable. The 18-year-old singer has already gotten his second piece of body art of 2013, a set of Roman numerals across his collarbone, as revealed in an Instagram photo he posted of himself and producer Jamal Rashid, who got the matching digits on his bicep. In a comment on the photo, Rashid claims the numerals, "I IX VII V," stand for 1975 and have some spiritual meaning, though Bieber hasn't offered an explanation as to the meaning. In any event, if it's meant to be the year 1975, it should be "MCM-LXXV."

Prince Harry named world's most eligible bachelor

He may be trouble-prone and lack his older brother's line of ascent to the British throne, but Prince Harry still beats out George Clooney to be named Town & Country magazine's Most Eligible Bachelor in the World for 2013. "He's the wild-card royal, the naughty one, the one who goes out with women, hangs out with a fast crowd, downs too many drinks, and goes home at the wrong moment. That's why we all like him best," the magazine's editors say. "Harry might not possess a towering intellect — he was a lackadaisical student at Eton, and he skipped university to go to Sandhurst, the English equivalent of West Point — but he is cooler and more appealing than his older brother, sweet as William undoubtedly is."

Elton John and David Furnish are parents once again, welcoming their second son, Elijah Joseph Daniel Furnish-John via surrogate late last week in Los Angeles, the singer announced on his website. "Both of us have longed to have children, but the reality that we now have

It is difficult to fully express how we are feeling at this time; we are just overwhelmed with happiness and excitement." ## ANNASOPHIA

In The Carrie Diaries, the television prequel to Sex and the City, AnnaSophia Robb stars as a 16-year-old, pre-Manolo, pre-Big Carrie Bradshaw — in 1984. But unlike the fashion-obsessed icon she plays on screen, Robb has a low-maintenance approach to makeup and clothes.

On putting the makeup on ... and taking it off

"I don't really wear makeup anymore. I kind of stopped because when I'm working, I have it on for up to 15 hours a day. So on the weekends or before work, I only put on moisturizer."

'80s makeup — yay or nay?

"Eighties makeup was just a bunch of colours and crazy neon. I don't know if I love it.

The blush was really strong and bright and if you didn't have the skin tone to pull it off, it was way too heavy. But, if you put a piece of paper on your cheek to create that hard, drastic line, that look can be fun."

Her beauty mantra

"Look after your eyebrows! I was given an eyebrow brush on a job once that I still use to this day. My friends make fun of me, but I love it. When I was younger my mother taught me how to apply blush. Get it wrong and there'll be way too much colour and you'll just look warm. Using bronzer is best."

The secret to nailing Carrie's hair: a wig

"I naturally have straight hair, which takes about two hours to curl, so it's faster for me to wear a wig. Carrie wears a lot of updos on the show, so we've been able to use a lot of fun accessories, banana clips and pins."

If she could raid one SATC closet she'd choose...

"Carrie's. I loved the skirts. She has a wild sense of style."

He's Daman. Designer takes couture-loving character back in time

Eric Daman worked with Pat Field to dress Carrie Bradshaw for Sex and the City. Now, the costume designer's dressing her again, albeit a teenage, 1980s version, in the prequel The Carrie Diaries. He talks about how he created the wardrobe for her teenage, 1980s life in The Carrie Diaries.

The wardrobe was such an important part of Sex and the City, it was practically its own character. How much pressure did you feel sourcing the young Carrie's closet for the new show?

I was actually quite stressed out by the thought of having to take on such an overwhelming task. But I was elated to be able to breathe new life into such an amazing fashion icon. The best part of it for me is being about to relive my coming of age '80s angst, from when I was a teen in the Midwest dreaming of a life in New York City.

You've worked with both

Carrie's keepsakes

Carrie was known for that name plate necklace and her Manolos. What are some of the key accessories and clothing items you're using on the show right now?

- "A personalized Carrie bag from Mark Cross, a "C" initial pendant from Alex Woo and a black polka dot party dress (an original vintage Scasi from the '80s) that she wears for her first night out in New York."

Carries — Sarah Jessica Parker and AnnaSophia Robb. How do they differ in their approach to her fashion choices?

The approaches are very different. We have to remember that this Carrie is a teenager who goes to public school. She will stay true to her idiosyncratic style, not giving in to pre-determined trends but making her own. So in that sense, there's a similarity.

Sweet Potato Cannelloni

This recipe serves four. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

Forget the stews, how about some fresh cannelloni?

If you haven't used your slow cooker for baked pasta dishes, you'll find they turn out well due to the slow gentle heat. Use oven-ready cannelloni for this recipe from Best of Bridge Slow Cooker Cookbook. It stands up better to the long, moist cooking than fresh or regular dried pasta.

1. Grease insert of a 3 1/2- to 4-quart slow cooker.

2. In a bowl, whisk together tomato sauce and milk. Spread 250 ml (1 cup) of the sauce mixture in bottom of slow cooker.

3. In another bowl, whisk together salt, nutmeg, pepper, egg, ricotta and Parmesan. Stir in sweet potato and spinach. Using fingers, fill cannelloni shells with ricotta mixture. Place filled shells side by side in slow cooker, making 2 layers if necessary. Pour remaining sauce over shells.

4. Cover and cook on low for about 6 hours or on high for about 3 hours, until bubbling. Sprinkle with mozzarella. Cover and cook on high for about 15 minutes or until mozzarella

Ingredients

- 750 ml (3 cups) tomato sauce
- 250 ml (1 cup) evaporated milk
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) salt
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) ground nutmeg
- 0.5 ml (1/8 tsp) pepper
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) ricotta cheese
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) grated Parmesan cheese
- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) grated peeled sweet potato
- 250 ml (1 cup) packed baby spinach, chopped

Raonic rumbles into third round

Canada's Milos Raonic defeated Lukas Rosol of the Czech Republic 7-6 (7-2), 6-2, 6-3 score-line to reach the third round of the Australian Open on Thursday.

The 13th seed stands one victory away from duplicating his best showings at a grand slam after playing four rounds at the U.S. Open last autumn and in Melbourne in 2011.

Raonic, from Thornhill, Ont., will face off against 17th-seeded Philipp Kohlschreiber on Sunday after the German advanced over Israeli Amir Weintraub 6-2, 7-6(4), 6-4.

Raonic, who struggled in his opening match at Melbourne Park, was dominant in his second, firing 18 aces to win and coming home in just over one hour 45 minutes.

He clinched the victory just in time, before temperatures rose to the day's high of 39 C, the hottest day of the event so far.

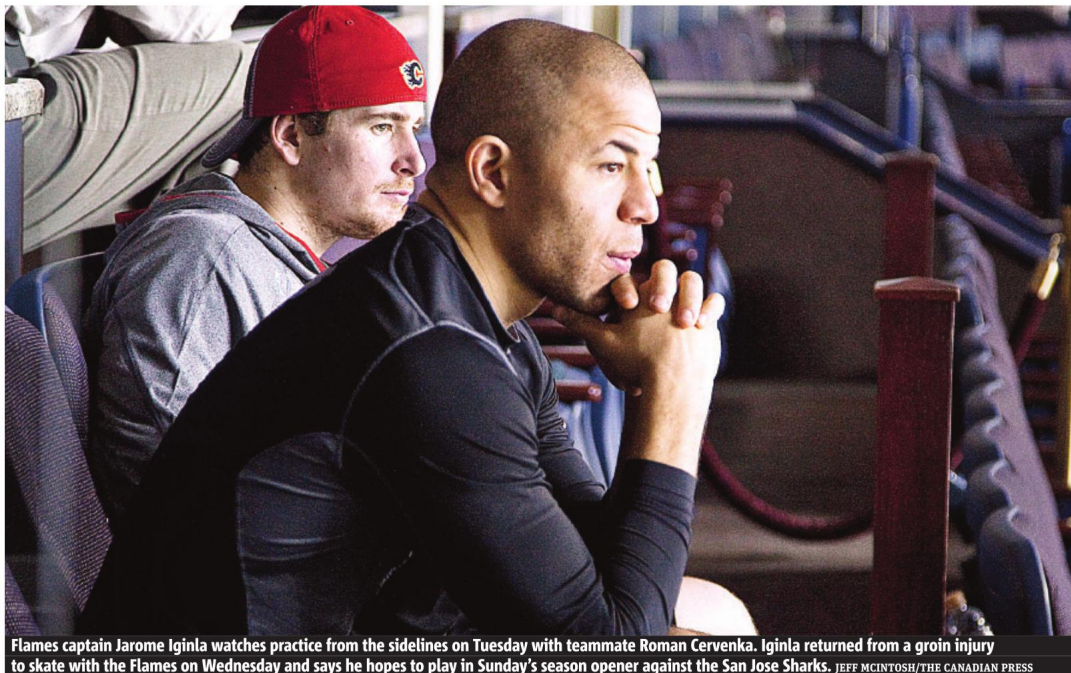

Raonic, ranked 15th in the world, had never faced Rosol before. The Czech is known for knocking Rafael Nadal out of the Wimbledon second round last June in the upset of the season.

NHL. Flames captain returns to training camp, hopeful he'll be able to play in Sunday's season opener Jarome Iginla practised at Flames training camp for the first time this season on Wednesday. The captain believes he'll be ready to play in Sunday's season opener against the San Jose Sharks.

The 35-year-old right-winger missed the first three days of training camp because of a groin injury.

"Thankfully I felt really good

Kipper gets a breather

New Flames head coach Bob Hartley said he will give goaltender Miikka Kiprusoff a day off from the ice on Thursday.

- "He's been in net since Day 1 of camp by himself, so tomorrow we're going to rest him," Hartley said.

out there today," Iginla said following practice. "I didn't feel it and it felt way better than last week. Last week, it didn't feel very good at all.

"It was a good pace out there as a group and a good amount of volume. I didn't feel it today, so hopefully it's an issue that will never come up again."

The Flames were on the ice for two hours of drills and scrimmages on Wednesday in front of about 400 people at Scotiabank Saddledome.

Iginla played on a line with

Alex Tanguay, who was converted to centre, and Curtis Glencross.

Iginla is scheduled to become an unrestricted free agent after this lockout-shortened season. He's entering the final year of a five-year deal paying him $7 million US per season.

He's been a Calgary Flame for his entire NHL career since his rookie season in 1996-97. Iginla has played 1,188 career games and scored 20 goals or more per season for 14 of his 15 seasons in Calgary.

Iginla left the ice with back spasms on the first day of training camp for the 2011-12 season. He started skating again 11 days later.

Trestman to take on Bears top job

NFL. Former Alouette will return south of the border, where he has served for eight teams

The Chicago Bears hired Montreal Alouettes coach Marc Trestman on Wednesday to replace the fired Lovie Smith and gave him two basic tasks — fix the offence and lead the team to the playoffs on a consistent basis.

How he meshes with quarterback Jay Cutler could go a long way toward determining his success.

It's the first NFL head-coaching job for Trestman, 57, a long-time assistant in the league who spent the past five seasons coaching the Alouettes, leading them to a 59-31 regular-season record and three Grey Cup appearances, winning twice.

Before arriving in the CFL in 2008, Trestman spent time in the NCAA, coaching at Miami and North Carolina State, and served in the NFL as a quarterback coach, running-back coach and offensive co-ordinator with Minnesota (twice), Tampa Bay, Cleveland, San Francisco, Detroit, Arizona, Oakland and Miami.

Chicago general manager Phil Emery cast a wide net in his search, meeting with at least 13 candidates. Besides Trestman, he also brought back Seattle Seahawks offensive co-ordinator Darrell Bevell and the Indianapolis Colts' Bruce Arians for second interviews.

Trestman wasted little time starting to assemble his staff.

A person familiar with the situation said the Bears hired New Orleans Saints offensive line coach Aaron Kromer as their offensive co-ordinator, hoping to revive a unit that often sputtered with Mike Tice calling the plays.

The Dallas Cowboys, meanwhile, reported on their website that special teams coach Joe DeCamillis was leaving to become Chicago's assistant head coach/special teams co-ordinator. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

QB Calvillo committed to 20th season

The Montreal Alouettes will have a new head coach in 2013, but a familiar face remains under centre.

Quarterback Anthony Calvillo isn't retiring. There were thoughts the 40-year-old might have a change of heart with Marc Trestman's departure, but the veteran quarterback emphatically stated he's all in for a 20th CFL season.

"One thing I've learned, I'm always going to trust the powers that be, (owner Robert) Wetenhall and (GM) Jim Popp, to get the right people in here to help us win," Calvillo told reporters in Montreal.

Chip Kelly goes back on decision, joins Eagles

In the end, Chip Kelly chose the NFL, giving the Eagles their guy.

Philadelphia hired Kelly on Wednesday, just 10 days after he decided to stay at Oregon. The 49-year-old Kelly, known as an offensive innovator, becomes the 21st coach in team history and replaces Andy Reid, who was fired on Dec. 31 after a 4-12 season.

He'll be introduced at a news conference Thursday.

Kelly was 46-7 in four years at Oregon and recently led the No. 2 Ducks to a victory over Kansas State in the Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 3. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jays farm hand banned 50 games

Toronto Blue Jays pitcher Alan Farina has been suspended 50 games following the right-hander's second positive test under baseball's minor-league drug program.

Farina is currently on the roster of Single-A Dunedin Blue Jays of the Florida State League.

Coming clean. Armstrong says he 'left it all on the table' in Oprah interview

Lance Armstrong said Wednesday that viewers can judge for themselves how candid he was in his interview with Oprah Winfrey.

"I left it all on the table with her and when it airs the people can decide," he said in a text message to The Associated Press.

Armstrong responded to a report in the New York Daily News, citing an unidentified source, that he was not contrite when he acknowledged during Monday's taping with Winfrey that he used performance-enhancing drugs.

He's also held conversations with U.S. anti-doping officials, touching off speculation that the team leader who demanded loyalty from others may soon face some very tough choices himself. Whether to co-operate and name those who aided, knew about or helped cover up a sophisticated doping ring that Armstrong ran on his tour-winning U.S. Postal Service squads.

"I have no idea what the future holds other than me holding my kids," he said.

Armstrong's interview with Winfrey won't begin airing until Thursday night, but already some people want to hear more — under oath — before he's allowed to compete again in elite triathlons, a sport he returned to after retiring from cycling in 2011.

In addition to stripping him of all seven of his Tour de France titles last year, anti-doping officials banned Armstrong for life from sanctioned events.

Former teammate Frankie Andreu, one of several riders Armstrong cast aside on his ride to the top of the sport, said no one is better-suited to provide anti-doping authorities with a blueprint for cleaning up the sport.

"Lance knows everything that happened," Andreu said. "He's the one who knows who did what because he was the ringleader. It's up to him how much he wants to expose."

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Career-wise this is a great day to start something new. If you have been thinking about changing job or vocation, what happens over the next 24 hours could make up your mind. Then all you have to do is act.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You are very much flavour of the month at the moment but it won't last forever, so make sure you take advantage of other people's good feelings towards you. This is also an excellent time to socialize.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

If you find yourself in a favourable position today, you must make good use of it. Don't miss out on a wonderful opportunity because you think it would be wrong to do well for yourself while others are struggling.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

If someone says something critical about you today, don't automatically assume they are trying to put you down. More likely, they are trying to make you aware of the mistakes you've been making. Listen and learn.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

In both your personal life and in your work, you are about to reap the rewards for past labours. All that is required of you is to sit back and enjoy the good things heading your way. You can do that.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Cosmic activity in your fellow Earth sign of Capricorn has been good for you lately. Today's Venus-Pluto union will bring out the passionate side of your nature, which will be good for those you love!

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You will find it easy to show affection today. You don't need to go over the top but you do need to let partners and relatives know how much you love them and how much you appreciate their efforts.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

With Venus, planet of romance, linked to your ruler Pluto in one of the more outgoing areas of your chart, you won't be shy about showing your affection today. When Scorpios love, they love without limits.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Ignore those who say you should be pushing yourself harder because they do not know what they are talking about. If everything comes so easily to you, why should you make it difficult? Life is there to be enjoyed.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You will be even more intense than usual today. Pluto in your sign will make you more passionate and help you to move mountains through sheer force of personality. Be a catalyst for change.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

There is so much in your life you have to be thankful for, yet still you are focusing on things that went wrong. Get over it. When the Sun enters your sign at the weekend you must be ready to move on.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Cosmic activity in the area of your chart that governs friendships and group activities means you will attract people who share your desire to improve things. Together you can change the world for the better. SALLY BROMPTON
